

Fred. Dunham has completed an elaborate sign for Mr. C. Geliney, of the Castro Meat Market, which for beauty of design and excellence of finish cannot be excelled. On either end is a vignette of heads of cattle to nature faithfully pictured, while the center-piece or sign proper represents a number of rural scenes. The whole displays an artistic conception and a skillful execution pleasing to behold even in a sign. The sign is an important adjunct of trade, but nevertheless it is too often but a vile and defective wall of the trader's place of business, and repelling rather than inviting custom. As a sign painter Mr. Dunham has no superior.

The party to be given by Relief Hook and Ladder Company, on Monday evening next, promises to be the grandest affair in that line ever given in Oakland. All the latest features of the ball-room will be introduced, the floor canvased, calcium lights, the music furnished by Ballenberg, and every possible energy will be exerted by the Company, and by members and individuals, to have the party a complete success in every particular.

A white boy met a colored boy and asked him what he had such a short nose for. "I sneeze so it won't poke itself into other people's business."

Church Migration

A gentleman and wife from San Francisco visited Oakland last Sunday for the purpose of attending divine service. They entered one of our principal churches, and being strangers, were escorted to a seat by an attendant. Frequently a party came in, and talking before the pew occupied by the visitors, remarked in a rude, unmannerly manner, "You're in my pew, sir." The gentleman and lady quietly arose, left the church, and visited another place of worship, not a thousand miles from our office, where they found a pastor, which they were permitted to enjoy, without being unceremoniously rebuffed, and not by vulgar shoddyism. Such exhibitions of Christian hospitality would bring the blush of shame to the cheek of a beauteous Hesterott. They are quite common in some of our very highest-toned churches.

Swear the Girls.

The Grangers are fast going for "our University"—they're bound it shall be devoted mainly to the instruction of young Grangers. An invoice of farming utensils was recently shipped to Berkeley. It doesn't matter much what becomes of the young men, but we should dislike to see so valuable students thrown away. And don't forget the millions of negroes and brown-skinned natives who will be present. The spectacle would be harrowing.

The color of the wind was discovered by the man who went out and found it blew.

SUPERVISORIAL SOLILOQUY.

[The "pondering" member of the Board is supposed to be meditating alone in a vacant room of the "Municipal House." He thinks about, as follows:]

To be or not to be, that is the question: Whether it is better to follow Case And outrage one's better nature.

Or boldly reach the creature— And by opposing, and his rule forever— Ding him so it were to that creature From whence he came a supervisor To come on all this trouble.

The custom of the modern office-holder We've followed with punctilious exactitude. Except in the matter of dishonesty: And it must be confessed

That, when we do tax the people against their wishes,

We do tread upon the very verge of that fine drawn line,

Which death separates the honest from the dishonest one.

If we were only making something by our acts,

'Twould be easier to bear the yoke of outraged conscience.—

I'm half inclined to vote with the Minority and Right—

Indeed I've promised so to do—But, then, there's Case—

O what a power for evil does That little, low-browed, weaver-faced man possess.

So closely he has enveloped me in his wiles, I find it impossible to break away.

Even at the banquet of honor—

[Case enters and stepping up behind the soliloquizing Nays, steps him familiarly on the back.]

Case—Ha! ha! We've got the Oakland people fast.

You bet? And now we must go in And meet an an angry Board.

Largely with wisdom impregnated Pay heed to my directions that you mistake not

Which way to vote; for the wily Shattuck High many parliamentary tricks wherewith To outwit the stay—unhappy supervisor.

[Enter M.]

I do believe he's half a nation of "failing down."

But, no, he's there not.

Now is the moment of all our schemes assured.

We hold the winning hand.

In all my vast experience at poker I've found that three of a kind—

When three there were aces (aces)—

Were mighty hard to beat.

So let the cunning Shattuck "call."

And honest Hardy "pass," and graft old Wilcox "bluff."

So long as Joshua and Joseph had hoped much,

The Larc—my father-in-law's—estate is safe.

To love and to labor is the sum of living, and yet how many think they live who neither labor nor love!

"Kiss me," was all she said.—[Modern Novel.] That was "enough said" to any young man.

Holiday.

Anniversary of Washington's birthday to-morrow. Monday will be observed as a holiday.

Move Along.

Those of our fellows ought to group themselves, as immovable as hitching posts, in the doorway of the post-office every morning and evening when there is a rush for mail. It's so convenient for ladies and gentlemen to elbow their way in and out.

Three Bon Bons.

While passing down Broadway, don't fail to stop at the candy store of Bruning Bros. and take a look at those bon bons to be used at the Anniversary Party of Relief Hook and Ladder Company, at Brayton Hall, on Monday evening next.

As Elegant Affair.

Mr. W. K. Harris has opened one of the finest and most elegantly furnished consortial parlors on the coast. Three superb chairs, elegant mirrors and rich carpet, both in pattern and quality, are only a few of the many features. Don't fail to step in and have a shave, at the low price of 15 cents—next Barber's office, on Broadway, near Seventh street.

Burglary.

The residence of Mr. Marion Clark, on Fourth street, was entered by burglars early in the evening of Thursday last, during the temporary absence of the family. After thoroughly ransacking the house, the thieves departed, carrying off a valuable six-shooter. It is a pity they didn't get the contents of the little "joker" before leaving.

Fine Printing House.

The TRIBUNE is issued from the Printing Establishment of J. S. Butler & Co., 408 Ninth street. This house is essentially an Oakland enterprise, and deserves the encouragement and patronage of our business men. All kinds of printing done here as neatly, cheaply and expeditiously as in any office in San Francisco.

To Our Patrons.

By a perusal of the TRIBUNE of to-day the reader can see who are the most enterprising, clear-sighted business men of Oakland; who are the first to step forward in aid of an Oakland enterprise. Every advertisement is deserving of a special mention, which only a lack of space prevents us from giving. We advise the public to patronize our advertisers first, last and all the time.

OYSTER HOME.

When roaming over Oakland, If hungry in the hour, I go straightway to "Widdows" And on oysters do I feast.

Eastern oysters, steamed and roasted, Native oysters, raw and fried; Oyster puddings, oysters on spaghetti; Oysters every way I've tried.

And truthfully I'd swear, There is no better treat, Than at the Oyster House, Four and a half block south street.

Advertisements—The Tribune.

The enterprising, successful business man of to-day owes his success mainly upon advertising. The liberal advertiser is always well patronized, and rarely fails, while he who imagines he can do business without advertising is poorly patronized, and either takes out a premature livelihood or is soon made acquainted with the pecuniary condition of the Bankrupt Act.

Every customer who is having, reads and makes with those who patronize the printer most liberal. The wise business man, then, who places his advertisements in the Tribune, will be seen by the greatest number of people. The Tribune is the most among many advantages.

The TRIBUNE is the only paper that will endeavor to make every advertiser will be read through every resident of Oakland.

The TRIBUNE is small, and for that reason no advertisement will escape the reader's attention.

The TRIBUNE will have a circulation of four thousand copies daily, so that the benefit which each advertiser will receive will be equivalent to the cost of a single circular distributed gratuitously throughout the community monthly.

The aim of the publishers of the TRIBUNE is to furnish the business men of Oakland with the superior advertising medium. We secure this their energies will be devoted.

CANDIDATE'S NOTICE.

SATURDAY, FEB. 21, 1871.

SALUTATORY.

There seems to be an open and inviting field for a journal like the Tribune in Oakland, and we accordingly proceed to occupy it, presenting the Tribune, which is intended to be a permanent daily paper, deriving its support solely from advertising patronage.

Five thousand copies will be distributed gratuitously throughout Oakland daily, making it decidedly the best advertising medium in the city.

We have no politics, but are independent, and will confine ourselves to local news, hoping to always advance the best interests of Oakland.

We will ever endeavor to maintain a proper dignity, trusting that our external demonstrations of internal truthfulness may ever remain unchanged to that conclusion.

Hoping our patrons and readers will make due allowance for our shortcomings while in our infancy, with confidence to labor for (our and) their best interests, and trust to our earnest efforts in the future, we make our bow.

THE Alameda, heretofore published as a real estate paper by A. J. Boyer, has changed ownership. "Dana Darnmore" becoming sole proprietor, under whose exclusive editorial control the paper will henceforth be published as a semi-literary, women's journal. It will be enlarged to double its former size, and otherwise improved. The first number of the new paper will be issued about the first of March. Subscription price, one dollar per year, invariably in advance. As "Dana Darnmore" is no novice, either in journalism or as a writer, and is well known as such, we bespeak for her abundant success. At least the Tribune extends to her its best wishes.

THE Tribune asks nothing to add to the brains. Bro. P. hasn't any but he's got. Besides, it has been demonstrated that the Cell can run with out them.
